THE STORY

The David Sterza winery is located in the tiny Valpolicella village of Casterna, in the foothills of the Lessini mountain range. The wine estate was established in 1998, but the family has been producing wine through a long tradition handed down from father to son. When the estate was passed into the care of the young David Sterza he sought the professional guidance of his cousin, the renowned wine expert Paolo Mascanzoni and together they set about producing some of the finest wines in the Valpolicella. Amarone is what the Valpolicella is rightly famous for and the David Sterza Amarone Classico is simply one of the best: a powerhouse wine!
